the proposition. He must become activation in the competition. He must back up the determination by honest effort. He must plane extensively for the campaign. He must devise methods of obtaining votes. He must become acquainted with the contest advertisers and their advertisements. In other words, he must be industrious. He must visit his friends and people whom he would like to be his friends. He must give them lists of the earthern and manufacturers and request that they patronize the establishments and products and save the votes for him. He must make all of his purchases at stores which give votes in the contest, and must buy only those manufactured products good for votes at The Herald office.

Then this contestant who would like to succeed must be persistent. He must nake contest to his relatives and his friends. He must think of votes before breakfast, during the day, and after supper. He must plug away persistently toward the bright goal in the distance.

And the person who follows this formula will certainly be a winner. Here is the programme in brief:
